

MANNS WOODWARD STUDIOS PRINCIPALS

Bio Brief

David Woodward, AIA, is a founding principal of the firm serves as the corporate director of the studio. He carries experience in a wide range of civic, institutional and cultural project that vary in both size and budget.

While maintaining leadership over projects, David is the managing principal in charge of construction documentation and administration. He specializes in providing owners with invaluable insight on the construction process and contract documents. His expertise in documentation, administration, and negotiation has saved both owners and contractors from costly and unnecessary change orders and time delays.

David resides in Anne Arundel County, Maryland and received his professional architectural degree from Drexel University and is currently licensed in the state of Maryland while maintaining reciprocity in 46 other states. He is an active member in the Baltimore chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Prior to forming Manns Woodward Studios, Woodward was a senior associate at Edmeades & Stromdahl, Architects + Planners where he oversaw the design and construction of many projects including the $40M Howard County Public Safety Training Complex. His responsibilities included the oversight of contracts, bidding & negotiation, construction and building design.

Previously, Woodward served as a project manager for Kramer Marks Architects of Fort Washington, Pennsylvania.

Project Experience

- | | |
|-----------------------|--------------------------|
| Religious Facilities | Restaurants & Bars |
| Fire Stations | Single Family Residences |
| Libraries | Historic Preservation |
| Public Safety Centers | Adaptive Reuse |
| Community Centers | Food Service |
| Childcare Facilities | Multi-Family Housing |
| Corporate Buildings | |

David A. Woodward, AIA
Principal Architect In Charge
Corporate Director